

Possessive or Contraction

Possessive are used to show something belongs to someone:

ex. Robert's house = the house belongs to Robert.

Contractions are when subjects and verbs are combined:

ex. Robert's tall = Robert is tall.

A. Read each sentence. Write P for possessive or C for contraction.

1. Sarah's phone is on the table. → ___
2. The lion's roar echoed through the valley. → ___
3. He's going to be late. → ___
4. My cousin's wedding is next month. → ___
5. The artist's style is very unique. → ___
6. It's been a long day. → ___
7. The baby's toy is missing. → ___
8. That's my brother's guitar. → ___
9. The company's logo changed last year. → ___
10. She's already left for the airport. → ___
11. The chef's knife is very sharp. → ___
12. The student's answer was correct. → ___
13. It's not what I expected. → ___
14. The dog's collar is red. → ___
15. The museum's entrance is around the corner. → ___